Greenbelt Triangle Preliminary Plan Passed By Planning Board

by Elaine Skolnik

At a lengthy session on the Greenbelt Triangle on July 28, the Prince Georges County Planning Board gave its blessing to (1) a preliminary sub-division plan for 38+ acres of the tract and (2) an overall concept plan for 55 acres. Although both plans were approved subject to conditions and comments, the city's concerns regarding the proposed 20-25 story "needle" building and the additional driveway cut along Greenbelt Road to serve a proposed drive-in bank were not shared by the Board and planning staff.

The Planning Board also directed the staff to send to the Prince Georges County Council a summary of its views on the Triangle concept plan, which is not considered enforceable. The county council requested such a report at the time sewer authorization was approved for the Capital Cadillac Automobile Agency on May 14, 1976.

Preliminary Plan

In approving the preliminary subdivision plan, the Planning Board stipulated that previously adopted conditions would still prevail - (1) the developer must provide guaranteed access to city property near the Beltway (Walker family cemetery and Indian Springs); (2) an individual parcel site plan must be submitted to the Planning Board for review prior to the issuance of each building permit (the city will be asked to provide input at this stage); and (3) office building construction is limited to 450,000 square feet so as to restrict the number of facilities that would generate peak rush-hour traffic.

The conditions satisfied several of the city's objections to the preliminary plan. However, the Planning Board did not agree with the city council's view that a third cut along Greenbelt Road for the proposed drive-in bank would pose a traffic problem. At present there are two approved dedicated roads serving the Triangle along Greenbelt Road - Walker Drive and Capitol Drive. The council, Advisory Planning Board and Park and Recreation Advisory Board oppose any additional cuts, but the city must address its grievances to the State Highways Administration since Greenbelt Road is under the jurisdiction of the state.

Concept Plan

In adopting the overall concept plan for the Triangle the Planning Board expressed general support for the plan. City manager James K. Giese attended the 2-hour meeting in Upper Marlboro and, in a report to city council, noted the following comments which were made by the Planning Board staff in which they "(1) . . . applauded the concept of the landmark (needle) building (that) tied into a cluster of office buildings and motel (the council, PRAB, and APB feel the building would intrude on Greenbelt Lake), (2) were concerned with the close proximity of the two entrances (off Greenbelt Road) and wished to explore the possibility of a free right turn lane from Capitol Drive to Walker Drive, (3) . . . expressed the need to consolidate some of the landscaping or green areas in order to provide buffer strips to separate some of the uses from others . . . noted such a strip would be desirable between the parking compound for Capitol Cadillac and the banquet facility, (4) . . . liked the concept of parking decks over a portion of the property . . . felt this could be done without sacrificing space, (5) . . . recommended that building setbacks from Greenbelt Road should be increased to at least 15 feet . . . , (6) . . . indicated that there were potential soil problems, particularly in the vicinity of the storm water management basins, (7) . . . felt storm water basins had potential for multiple uses such as being utilized as landscaping features and as passive recreational areas developed with pathways, etc., (8) . . . thought cost of any recreational facilities developed on city lands should be shared between the developer and the city, (9) . . . were concerned with the cul-de-sac designs . . . , and (10) . . . felt a need for a fully dedicated street to the city property but then subsequently talked about an easement being suitable."

State Highways

The Greenbelt city council on July 28 approved the concept plan with 11 conditions. (These appeared in the July 28, 1977 News Review.) The council will discuss the Triangle at their regular meeting on August 8.

The Planning Board did not approve the request of the State Highway Administration that an additional right-of-way be reserved along Greenbelt Road and at the corner of Greenbelt Road and Kenilworth Avenue for future improvements to the intersection. Owner-representative Kenneth Michael also took a dim view of this request noting that the State had still not made an offer for the acquisition of the land they requested next to the Beltway and Greenbelt Road for use as an entrance ramp to the southbound lane of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

Blood Drive at NASA

A drive for blood donations will take place on August 10, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Goddard Space Flight Center, Building 8, sponsored by the American Red Cross.

As many people as possible are needed to donate blood because the supply is short in the summer. Regular donors are on vacation, and there are often more traffic accidents.

According to the Red Cross, there are no risks involved in donating blood. It is done in 45-50 minutes by a trained registered nurse. Persons between the ages of 18 and 66, with normal blood pressure and a weight of at least 110 pounds, are eligible.

It is hoped that as many persons as possible will donate blood, thus demonstrating that "Greenbelt Cares."

City Groups Receive Grants

The Arts Division of The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission (MNCPPC), Department of Parks and Recreation, Prince Georges County, has awarded grants from $500 to $5000 to 11 County music groups for the 1977-1978 season.

Among the groups receiving grants from MNCPPC were the Greenbelt Choral Arts Society and the Greenbelt Concert Band. The grants will assist in paying costs of leadership, equipment, music, or a combination of these expenses.

CAUTION

Summer is a time for going shoe-less. It is also a time of increased consumption of soft drinks, bottled and canned.

When broken glass or pop-tops come into contact with bare feet, the results can be quite painful.

Greenbelt residents are requested to deposit these potentially harmful objects in the proper receptacles - not on the ground.

NOTE: Preliminary Agenda - Subject to Change

Only Six Candidates File For City Council Election

With less than a week before the filing deadline, six candidates have now tossed their hats into the ring competing for the five seats on the Greenbelt City Council. The election will be Tuesday, September 20. Not surprisingly, the first five to file were the incumbents, Richard Castaldi, Tom White, Gil Weidenfeld, Charles Schwan, and Richard Pilski. They were joined by Robert Phillips. A newcomer on the scene, Phillips has resided in Greenbelt about a year and a half.

Monday, August 8, is the deadline for filing nomination petitions with the city clerk, Gudrun Mills. Mrs. Mills told the News Review that two more potential candidates picked up the necessary forms but have not yet filed.

The voter registration books will be open until August 22. Persons may register with the city clerk from 8-4:30 Monday through Friday or may call 474-3870 or 474-8000 to obtain forms for registering by mail.

Following are biographies of the candidates which were available - the rest may be published next week.

Castaldi

Castaldi was elected to city council in 1973. He is currently mayor pro-tem. He is 33 years old, married and the father of three children. He graduated from High Point High School and is now attending the University of Maryland, majoring in business administration. As a member of City Council, he served on the Council of Governments Transportation Planning Board and in addition was a member of the Human Resources Policy Board. Castaldi has been employed for over fourteen years at the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, where he is Acting Supervisor in charge of the Information and Permits Section. He served on the Board of Directors of the MNCPPC Credit Union and is President of the MNCPPC Employee's Fund.

He is a member of the Greenbelt Jaycees. He was awarded a certificate by the Commissioner of the Maryland State Department of Health after taking an advanced training program offered by American Public Housing Authority. He completed a management training course at Georgia Tech in 1972.

Castaldi, a second generation Greenbelter, is a member of GHI, and resides at 11 V Ridge Road. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Castaldi, residents of Greenbelt for over 38 years.

Requirements for School Transfers

While the overwhelming majority of students in the Prince Georges County Public Schools attend the school assigned for their own geographic areas, the school system does grant transfers from one school to another for any of several reasons — and school officials remind parents that if they intend to apply for a transfer for the upcoming school year, the request should be in by August 15. After that date, there's no guarantee that officials will be able to complete processing and decision-making on the request in time for the September 6 opening of schools.

Transfer forms can be obtained at any school office or from the Office of Student Transfers in Upper Marlboro, at 952-4680. Among the reasons for which transfers may be approved are: for a program of instruction not offered at a student's assigned school — for medical or psychological reasons (at the recommendation of a doctor) — for before-or-after school child care for elementary students — or for other reasons of extreme hardship.

Outstanding Citizen

The deadline for nominations for Outstanding Citizen has been extended through Tuesday, August 9. Mail or bring nominations to chairman Ruth Dee, 39-J Ridge Road, Greenbelt. For more information, call 474-2973.

The Art Show will be held Sat., Sept. 3, 1-4 p.m., and Sun., Sept. 4, 1-4 p.m. Adult Categories include drawing, painting, prints, mixed media and collage, and sculpture and ceramics. Children will be judged in the following age categories: 6 years and under, 7-11 yrs., and 12-17 yrs. in the areas of painting, drawing and prints, mixed media and collage, and sculpture and crafts.

Anyone interested in helping with any aspect of the show (publicity, hanging, sitting, or dismantling) is more than welcome. Please call Toni Foster, 474-0347, for further information.

Parade

The order of march is beginning to take shape, with its floats, majorettes, drums, clowns, musical groups, automobiles, color guards, and drill teams.

One musical group that hopes to march in Greenbelt's 23rd annual Labor Day Parade on Sept. 5 is the Spirit of '76 Ancient Fife and Drum Corps of Long Island, New York. Members are now holding bake sales and other fund-raising activities to arrange their trip here. This group has received many state and national honors.

The float competition will feature the return of such entries as the Sligo Seventh Day Adventist Teens, St. Hugh's Catholic Youth Organization, C & P Telephone Co., and the Miss Greenbelt Pageant float.

Clown groups will include the Charlestowne Crazies, the Knights of Columbus Knights of the Klown Table, and the Maryland Mercenary Militia who will perform their usual acts of clubbing and violence.

The drill teams from the United States Navy and Coast Guard also will be present, along with the marching Naval Sea Cadets. Majorettes from Berwyn Heights and Riverdale will appear, as well as the Dynamics, winner of last year's first place majorette award.

The First United States Army Band, initially formed in 1861, will have its 45 members marching in the parade. The band has received numerous awards, plaques, and trophies for its excellence.

Any groups wishing to enter the parade should contact Wayne Williams, 474-1259.

Lion's Bike Contest

Sponsored once again by the Greenbelt Lions' Club, the Bike Contest, bigger and better than ever, is scheduled for the Labor Day parade.

Chaired again by Lion Henry Fisher, the contest will feature children aged 4 through 12 years. Winners in various categories will receive trophies.

As usual, all participants will receive a prize.

"The Bike and Trike section of the parade is always a crowd favorite," says Fisher.

Talent Show

Singers, dancers, magicians, or whatever, are encouraged to participate in this year's Talent Show. Any person 18 years of age and younger may perform on the Festival stage in the Talent Show. Prizes will be awarded. For more information, contact Sharon Alfaro, 474-8668, or Brenda Cooley, 345-1388.

Carnival

All booth sketches and fees should be in the hands of the Festival committee by Wednesday, August 10. Organizations wanting a booth should send these items plus a detailed outline of the food they intend to sell or the activity they plan to sponsor with prices they intend to charge to P. O. Box 2, Greenbelt, 20770. For information on booths, call Hamer Campbell, 952-3781 or Sandra Barnes, 474-5310.

On July 11, 1977, the City Council of Greenbelt, Maryland, adopted Charter Amendment Resolution 1977-4 (Resolution No 368), and the following Title of the Resolution is a fair summary of the amendment:

Capital Cadillac Applies For Building Permit

by Elaine Skolnik

The Capital Cadillac Automobile Agency, the first enterprise scheduled to open on the C-2 zoned (General Commercial) Greenbelt Triangle, applied for a building permit the latter part of June. The agency was not required to obtain a special exception since the application was dated prior to July 1, the effective date of county bill 119 which stipulated the need for a special exception for automobile dealerships on land zoned C-2. (County Council on August 1 passed new legislation, CB-67, which would delete the special exception provision effective March 1978).

Prior to granting a building permit, various county agencies must review and approve plans of the applicant. However, in the case of Capital Cadillac and other businesses that plan to locate on the Triangle, there is an additional requirement at the permit stage. An individual parcel site plan must be submitted for review and comment by various technical agencies and the city of Greenbelt. After this is accomplished, the plan will be brought before the Planning Board. This provision was stipulated by the Prince Georges County Council at the time it authorized sewer rights for the automobile agency in May 1976.

Currently this review is being conducted with the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission's Urban Design Division at the helm. Technical agencies — County Public Works, Soil Conservation, State Highway Administration, etc.—are now studying plans relating to (1) landscaping (2) treatment of location of buildings (3) access points (4) curb cuts (5) internal parking and (6) external site factors.

The proximity of Capital Cadillac agency to the Beltway presents special problems with respect to the location of the building, a proposed free-standing sign and screening. The agency will be located on 6.5 acres of the Triangle.

James Burchick Loves His Job as a Mailman

Postman James Burchick loves his job. This is taken from a Washington Post article of July 14. "I always wanted to be a Norman Rockwell mailman," Burchick says, and he thinks he comes "pretty damn close."

He rises early—4:30 a.m.—and is sorting mail by 6. He begins his 15-mile route in North Bethesda at 9, finishing about 1 p.m. Burchick's reliability and responsibility have won him the superior accomplishment award, an honor shared by only a few other mail carriers in the Washington area.

Burchick's 288-stop route is an interesting one: all private homes, belonging mostly to businessmen, lawyers, scientists, and ambassadors. He likes not having to deliver welfare checks; but will always place bills on the bottom of each stack, personal letters on top. He has been known to alter his route on occasion to deliver a Saturday paycheck.

Knows Everyone

Burchick has been delivering mail on this same route for most of the 8 years he has been with the Postal Service; he is close, but not too close, to everyone on his beat. He knows who's away, and where they've been when they get back; which dogs are sociable and which would fancy Leg-of-Mailman for lunch; how to talk long enough to be friendly, but not long enough to be late in completing his appointed rounds.

"I love this job," Burchick says. "You get to see people. You get to know people."

James Burchick and his wife Anna, formerly of Greenbelt, now live in Hyattsville. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Burchick, Woodland Way, Greenbelt.

Athletics Win Series Title In Greenbelt Little League

by Dave Evans

The Pepsi Cola Athletics won the third and deciding game of a best-of-three world series match-up. The DAV Tigers faltered under a heavy barrage of hits, resulting in a lopsided 21-3 victory for the defending Little League champion Athletics.

This season was particularly exciting and grew in intensity in the final two weeks with a Tiger victory a must in one of their final three games, and the Athletics winning over the Cardinals in a play-off the evening before the series opener.

The first game saw the Athletics squeak past the Tigers in a seven-inning 9-8 effort that was a well-played crowd pleaser. The Tigers bounced right back the following day with a 18-12 victory in another nail-biter that set the stage for the third and deciding game. This saw the Tigers buckle under many mental mistakes to a cool and determined opponent.

Some standout players in the series competition were pitchers Jeff Sommers, Marty Evans, Shawn Allison and Lenny Modzelewski and Tommy Kifline, who thrilled the fans with two homers — one with the bases loaded and one with two men on. There were many stellar defensive plays and the offensive bats were booming throughout, but space does not allow us to cite each and every player. However, a much-deserved thank-you from parents, coaches and spectators goes to each and every team member for a job exceptionally well done.

In addition, the coaches did an outstanding job as usual, to say nothing of the tireless efforts of Joe Donnelan and the other umpires who did a terrific job under severe pressure.

Record Setting Heat And Air Pollution

According to the Metropolitan Washington Coalition for Clean Air (MWCAA), Inc., the automobile accounts for an estimated 80 to 90 percent of the area's air pollution problem.

In 1976, records were smashed in an unprecedented wave of heat and air pollution:

1. There were 8 air pollution alerts, lasting a total of 27 days.

2. Both the earliest (April 19, 1976) and the latest (September 13, 1976) oxidant air pollution alerts were recorded in the metropolitan area.

3. A total of 63 days recorded oxidant air pollution above the national primary health standard. Approximately 1 out of every 2.4 days between April 15 and September 15 were unhealthy, according to the Council of Governments and the Environmental Protection Agency. Only one violation of the hourly ozone standard is allowed in an entire year. MWCAA estimates that the Washington area recorded hundreds of ozone violations in 1976.

As of July 18, 1977, the area has already experienced four air pollution alerts, lasting a total of 17 days. Many medical experts perceive serious public health consequences as a result of air pollution in our urban areas. MWCAA and its cooperating organizations believe that weakening amendments to the Clean Air Act will increase the severity of the air pollution problem in this area and result in thousands of premature deaths and days of illness across the nation.

Greenbelt Little League standings are as follows, American, 13-7 Athletics, 13-7 Cardinals, 10-10 Lions, 4-16 Indians; National, 16-4 Tigers, 14-6 Orioles, 14-6 Giants, 8-12 Cubs.

Poor, Elderly Get Help With High Energy Bills

Prince Georges County Executive, Winfield Kelly, announces that the County's elderly and low income citizens will get some relief from high energy bills as the Maryland Special Crisis Intervention Program begins August 1. Prince Georges County will have nearly $239,000 available. The program covers bills accumulated since October 1976.

Eligible for the program are those low-income households which, because of large unpaid energy/fuel bills from last winter, have had their utilities shut off, are threatened with the inability to obtain delivery of heating fuel.

In order to apply, individuals must present the delinquent bills and/or notice of shut off and have certification of income eligibility. All bills will be verified with the vendor. A one time payment of up to $250 may be made to alleviate the delinquent bills. The money will be paid directly to the appropriate vendor. This program will run through August 31. There will be no funds available after that date. The nearest office, located at the Berwyn Heights Town Hall, 8700 Berwyn Rd., is open Tuesdays

Police Blotter

The new shop, "Nook & Cranny", which adjoins the Co-op Food Store, was broken into during the late night hours on July 21. A large amount of clothing was removed. A large amount of property was recovered from the parking area to the rear of the Center. Investigation led to the identification of the perpetrator. A warrant was obtained for the subject, a 24 year old male resident of Berwyn Heights. He was apprehended by Officer Cancelose and incarcerated in lieu of $500 bond.

After observing a suspicious vehicle, PFC Duprat checked the tag on it and found it to be listed as stolen. The vehicle was stopped and the operator who claimed to have purchased the vehicle (which had not been stolen) was charged with using tags on the wrong vehicle, petty larceny and various other registration violations.

A resident of Ridge Road reported observing an accident involving a motorcycle in which the operator appeared to be intoxicated. Officer Watkins responded and found a subject matching the description approximately one block from the scene. He approached the individual and was struck by him as he attempted to question him. As a result, the 24 year old resident of New Carrollton was charged with assault and battery of a police officer.

A subject who was visiting someone on Crescent Road reported that his truck had been stolen. A lookout was issued and approximately two hours later it was recovered by one of Greenbelt's former dispatchers, Officer Day of the Cheverly Police Department. He was also able to apprehend the culprit who is now awaiting trial. The subject, a juvenile, was found to be an escapee of an institution in Baltimore.

A resident of Springhill Lake reported his car had been stolen and apparently involved in an accident. Investigation revealed he had been the operator of the vehicle and he was charged with hit and run.

After having their car impounded from a fire lane, two New York residents became very disorderly when they came to the station to have the car released. As a result, the male subject was charged by PFC Duprat with disorderly conduct and the female was charged with resisting arrest and trespassing, and assault and battery.

Twenty-four juvenile complaints were reported last week. Three juveniles were apprehended for shoplifting from two grocery stores, and were released to their parents.

Eleven animal complaints were reported last week. In addition, seven animals were impounded, including a racing pigeon. Three dog bites were also reported.

A reported indecent exposure incident is being investigated; it took place in Springhill Lake late one night this week.

Ground Under by the Under Ground

by Mike Jones

While the institution of bus-to-rail service by the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority shows some promise, the first day of operation would only earn it a C minus.

The morning bus ride from Greenbelt to the Armory station went without a hitch, save for perhaps the gloomy speculation of some passengers whose opinion of the metrorail system was anywhere from apprehensive to downright paranoid.

The morning rail trip, from the Armory station to the Farragut West station was also without major problems, with only a few stops in the middle of tunnels while the operator explained that another train was too close to ours for us to continue to operate. However, since it took less than thirty minutes to get from the stadium to Farragut Square, there was little to complain about.

Since I had taken this trip not as a commuter, but more as an interested party, I had the entire day to wander through Washington, looking at the various Metro stations, as well as to talk to people involved with or using the metrorail. (I would like to add at this point that I have already seen most of the tourist attractions in the Capitol and Mall areas, and did not intentionally overlook them for the sake of Metro.)

The most obvious factor about Metro was that it was not complete. In some cases, I would walk up to the big brown post with the big "M" on it, only to find a rather large mass of debris which vaguely resembled some escalators under construction, or, in the case of the L'Enfant station, a blank wall (which was found after some searching) which proudly announced a "future" Metro entrance.

In many stations, there was also an obvious lack of the proper number of farecard machines. At one Metro Center entrance, for example, one machine had run out of change while the only other machine had been rendered inoperable after it had suffered mechanical indigestion from overeating. (It choked on the last of four dollar bills fed it by the person ahead of me.) A later visit to that station revealed that the problem had been taken care of.

Entrance gates also were lacking. Where it would normally be possible for persons to enter on two sides of the large kiosk, in many cases only two or three entrance gates were working, with a large sign on the other side asking us to pardon the inconvenience while more gates were ordered. The sign was sitting above a large confusing mass of wires sticking out of the ground.

Rush Hour Return

I was not too fortunate in taking Metro back from downtown to Greenbelt in the evening rush hour. I arrived at the Farragut West station about 5 p.m., hoping to be able to board either of the two Greenbelt express buses which would leave the armory station at 5:20 and 5:35.

After traveling past two stations, the train in which I was riding was packed full, prompting one passenger to make the whimsical suggestion that Metro hire the "pushers" that are used in Japan to fit more people on trains. After taking quite a while to start and after the attendant insisted that people were pushing on the doors (no such persons were visible in the car in which I was riding), we stopped in the center of a tunnel a few times before arriving at the next station. At that time, the attendant, whose tone had changed from surly to downright obnoxious, suggested that some people leave the train, "because y'all are pushing against the doors." One person in the car I was in pressed the emergency call button and suggested in equally polite tones that the train operator be the first to leave.

By this time, it had gotten to be 5:45 p.m., and I had missed both express buses. At 6 p.m., I arrived at the Armory station and boarded a local bus back to Greenbelt.

As I stated earlier, Metro shows promise. But for the time being, I'm not sure I'd recommend it to the average commuter who may have a choice.

Metro may be an idea whose time has come, but, after all this waiting, we could have waited another month until WMATA got all their equipment working and some of the bugs ironed out.

CITY NOTES

Public Works

New limestone has been applied over the areas that had previously been covered with suspect crushed stone, and the job is now complete. A driveway entrance on Ridge Road that had been disturbed by the construction of new curb and gutter last fall was paved. All pedestrian underpasses were cleaned. Several clogged storm sewers were cleaned out and also the continuous running spring on Greenhill Road.

A large elm tree along Crescent Road near the War Memorial was found to be infested with the Dutch elm disease. The tree and stump have been removed and disposed of.

On July 18 six men employed under the CETA program began work on the old landfill. The main job was to remove all pieces of concrete, asphalt and rock as well as fences and other markers that people had around their gardens. The area has been disced and the next step will be the application of sludge. This crew is expected to be available for approximately 10 months to undertake special public service projects such as the establishment of new ball fields. CETA program emphasis precludes their working on routine maintenance or other recurring activities.

The WSSC sent their "television crew" out to televise the storm sewer at 6 Crescent Road following recent complaints of settling and holes developing over the line. The pictures showed the complete interior of the 12" line, and there were no faulty joints or other malfunctioning areas.

CARES

Beltway Plaza Bookland requested 12 to 15 young people to take inventory at the end of July. This is the first "break through" into the business world for the young people and Odd Jobs, Inc.

Lisa Renshaw and Jeff Katz attended the Prince Georges County Hotline reception on July 22. CARES uses the Hotline as a referral and resource information agency.

On July 25 Lisa Renshaw met with Ken Kopstein, Assistant Manager of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Sally Rogers and Happy Garcia of the Prince Georges County Division of Aging. Discussed were possible ways to merge the youth and the elderly programs, and ways to find out the elderly's needs via outreach workers which would be provided by the Division of Aging.

On Thursday the CARES staff met with four Bowie State students who were developing a community resource list as a project. Goals, procedures, staff functions and CARES services highlighted the meeting.

Friday thirteen young people met at Bookland to take inventory from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Also, Lisa Renshaw met with John Storms, Coordinator of the Summer Scholastic Employment Program, other Youth Services Bureaus and Dicap Centers to discuss the strengths and weaknesses of the 1977 programs and strategies for improving the program next year.

For the month of July: 16 young people obtained jobs ranging from inventory work to babysitting to watering plants. 16 students were tutored; (tutoring will resume in

Public Works

The CETA program employees have been working at the site with one of our regular crewmen. The site is about ready to receive sludge which hopefully will be hauled in this week. The crew did street work including some temporary patching. A depressed area was

Parcel 1 Purchase Okayed

The city of Greenbelt has approached the owner of Parcel 1 to buy land designated as Parcels A and B in Parcel 1 according to council authorization on May 2. The owner has agreed to sell the 28 acres in question provided that the City agrees to permit the developer to construct road access over this property to an adjacent property at such time as he decided to develop it.

The two parcels are adjacent to the land given to Greenbelt by the Federal Government. This land was dedicated with the proviso that more land be added to it in the future. Parcel A borders the Agriculture Research Farm along the top of Parcel 1. Parcel B extends from the government gift land south along the B-W Parkway to Northway extended, across from the old landfill. With this purchase, City Manager Giese noted that the city can now build a bike trail through this land.

Giese recommended that council authorize the mayor to execute the agreement on behalf of the city. Council approved the authorization 3 to 0 at the July 25 meeting.

Insurance

Council also approved the purchase of police professional liability insurance. The present insurance market conditions make it impossible to bid on this type of insurance and it was not until the day before the expiration of the then enforced policy that the city was able to find another carrier. The new policy is in effect, but the insurance company has demanded full payment of the premium, which must be authorized by the Council.

A second item purchased is police computer terminal time. The source of this computer service is actually determined by the State of Maryland and can therefore not be bid in the normal fashion.
